How to Read This Document

Two mantras hide inside one chant. Both have been verified syllable by syllable.

Cipher I — the Acrostic. In the Opening Song, take only the first word of each line. Sixteen lines, sixteen words. Read top to bottom, they speak the complete Mahā-mantra.

Cipher II — the Rectangle. Lay the eight couplets of the Kīrtana section into a grid of syllables, twenty-five wide and eight deep. Mark columns 3, 9, 15 and 21. Read column 3 downward, column 9 upward, column 15 downward, column 21 upward — the serpent's path, boustrophedon, as the ox ploughs the field. The thirty-two syllables extracted are, exactly, the Mahā-mantra.

The chant may be sung with no knowledge of either device; nothing is lost. But the singer who knows carries the name twice — once on the tongue, once in the architecture. The omen dreams the seer; the seer dreams the omen.

Black Bird Omen and Crossing

The crossing verses — sung as written; no cipher, only current.

Kṛṣṇāḥ pakṣiṇaḥ svapnanti, kṛṣṇān balambalān iva;

Black birds are dreaming, as though dreaming black butterflies.

Teṣāṃ svapne punaḥ sphuranti, kṛṣṇāḥ pakṣiṇa eva hi.

Within their dream they shine again — truly, they are black birds.

He narāḥ, paśyata pakṣaṃ samhṛtam;

O people, behold the folded wing.

Śakunaḥ draṣṭāraṃ svapnati, draṣṭā śakunaṃ svapnati;

The omen dreams the seer; the seer dreams the omen.

Bhayaṃ ca dhārayati rūpam eka-pārśvasya cakrasya.

And fear takes the form of a circle with one side.

He bālakāḥ, ākarṣata, ākarṣata — agninā, phenena ca;

O boys, pull, pull — through fire and foam.

Imaṃ nāvaṃ nayāmaḥ asurasya gṛhāt param.

We carry this boat beyond the demon's house.

He kanyāḥ, ākarṣata, ākarṣata — stanitena, gagane ca;

O girls, pull, pull — through thunder and sky.

Dvārāṇi bhañjāmaḥ yatra devadūtāḥ nilyante.

We break the gates where the angels hide.

Aho kṛṣṇāḥ pakṣiṇaḥ! Aho kṛṣṇa-gaṇaḥ!

Ah, black birds! Ah, black host!

Svapnata kṛṣṇān pakṣān! Rājñām api pārataḥ tarata!

Dream the black wings! Cross beyond even kings!

Yarra-kardamāt ārabhya — nyāya-ghaṇṭā-paryantam —

Beginning from the Yarra mud — to the bell of judgment —

Svargaṃ grhṇīmaḥ, narakam grhṇīmaḥ.

We seize heaven. We seize hell.

Kaḥ sa śabdaḥ? Purāṇaḥ garjaneśvaraḥ garjati!

What is that sound? The ancient lord of thunder roars.

Kasya vāyu-viplavaḥ? Airitrāṇi yeṣāṃ santi, teṣāṃ.

Whose storm-wind is this? It belongs to those who hold the oars.

Tarata, tarata, kṛṣṇam tarata!

Row, row, row the black.

Na devaḥ, na śmaśānam, na punar-āvṛttiḥ.

No god, no grave, no turning back.

Kṛṣṇapakṣi — tarata, tarata, jvālām tarata!

Kṛṣṇapakṣi — row, row, row the flame.

Svargaś ca narakaś ca — asmākaṃ nāma jānītaḥ.

Heaven and hell — know our name.
